OLIN HIGH SCHOOL is situated in the North-Eastern part of Iredell county, N. C., on the waters of Rocky creek, in a healthy section of country, and in the midst of an industrious and moral community, and is as free from temptations to extravagance and dissipation as any school. The course of instruction is full, and particular attention is paid to the elementary branches. All the teachers have experience; and the Principal, Rev. B. Clegg, is well and favorably known as one of the most successful managers and instructors of youth in the State. The government is mild and firm. It is gradually increasing, and afters strong inducements to those who have sons and daughters to be educated. Parents and Guardians are left to manage the inducements to those who have sons and daughters to be educated. Parents and Guardians are left to manage the expenditures in dress, to control the amount of pocket money, and to allow the making of accounts with merchants and others, or to interdict them as they think best. The trustees and teachers recommend and inculcate plainness, simplicity and neatness in dress, and frugality and economy in expenditures; but assume no authority to control them, and take no responsibility in these matters.

LEGISLATURE DE MORTH CAROLINA.

SATURDAY, Dec. 4. SENATE. The Speaker called the Senate to order at 11 o' clock—prayer by Rev. Mr. Heflin.

To-day's session was devoted almost exclusively to the consideration of private bills, &c. MEMORIALS. Mr. Donnell presented a memorial from the citizens of the town of Washington, requesting to be put in communication by railroad with other towns of the State. Referred to the committee on internal improvements. RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. Edney presented a resolution releasing Geo.

W. Hampton, sheriff of Buncombe county, from the penalty of $1000 for failing to settle in full with the Comptroller. Mr. Carmichael introduced a bill for the improvement of a part of the public road from Wilkesboro to Jefferson. Internal improvements.

Mr. Worth, a bill to incorporate the Cedar Falls manufacturing company. Corporations. THE SHERIFF OF BUNCOMBE. Mr. Edney now called up his resolution relative to the sheriff of Buncombe county. He explained that the failure to settle arose from no fault of the sheriff, but was the result of an error of the county court clerk. The sheriff had sent a messenger with ample funds to complete the settlement; but the comptroller had refused to settle with him till this resolution was passed. The amount of the deficit was but $40 or $50. Mr. Cowper thought the resolution ought to be referred. Mr. Houston thought the explanation of Mr. Edney satisfactory. There were precedents for the passage of the resolution without a reference. Mr. Steele concurred with Mr. Cowper. The Senate ought to act cautiously in these matters. Mr. Edney said that a reference would delay the messenger here for several days. He knew the statement he had made to be correct. Mr. Donnell thought the resolution should be referred, and moved it be sent to the committee on propositions and grievances. Adopted. AMENDMENT OF THE RULES. The resolution of Mr. McDowell, offered vesterday, to amend the rules 13 and 27 of the Senate, was taken up, and the amendments adopted. [Object, to save the clerk the labor of keeping a calender.

BILLS, &C., ON THEIR SECOND READING. The following private bills, &c., were read the second time and passed: A resolution in favor of Jos. Marshall, sheriff of Stanly county. [Returns overpaid money.] A bill authorizing W. R. Abbot to cut a canal and build a road thereon. A bill to incorporate the Pamlico Guards. A bill to incorporate the Elm City Cadets. An engrossed bill to incorporate the Arendell Hotel company. Mr. Gorrell moved a suspension of the rules to put the bill on its third reading Mr. Ward would like to lay it on the table for a short time to allow him to examine it. Agreed to. The bill to emancipate Crecy, a slave, was re-An engrossed bill to incorporate the White Oak

River navigation company, was next taken up. The amendments of the committee were adopted. Mr. Ward explained that the bill was important to the citizens of Onslow and Jones. All that was required was a bare charter, to enable them to get their produce to market. The notice for the application did not meet the requirements of law, in point of time, and the bill was laid on the table. The bill to incorporate the Newbern Gaslight company failed from the same canse. The bill to incorporate the Buckhorn Iron company, was amended by striking out "perpetual succession" and inserting 90 years, on motion of Mr.

Mr. Ashe offered as an amendment that said company should pay to the treasury $20 before its organization. He intended to apply that rule to all private bills, to cover the expense of printing.

Mr. Houston thought it might conflict with the constitutional rights of the people.

Mr. Ashe did not know anything about that; but he was determined to vote against all private bills, without this provision.

Mr. Thomas thought the Senator should include $1 for paper. He was opposed to the amendment, as it would tend to exclude the bills of the people of many counties who never got anything by their applications. He would suggest as an amendment that such a charge should not be made on any company without its consent. Mr. Ramsay opposed the amendment. He was against all distinctions. If you tax one bill tax all. Mr. Speight would prefer a general law, if this idea of taxation should be entertained. The amendment of Mr. Ashe was rejected. The bill then passed its second reading. On motion of Mr. Ashe, the rules were suspended and the bill read a third time. The engrossed bill to amend the charter of the Little River Turnpike Company, was referred to the committee on internal improvements. This ended the business of the calendar.

MESSAGES FROM THE HOUSE. A message was received from the House transmitting the report of Jacob Siler, agent for the sale of Cherokee lands, with a proposition to print. Concurred in. CAPE FEAR AND DEEP RIVER NAVIGATION COMPANY.

Also a message proposing to raise a joint select committee to examine and report on the works of the Cape Fear and Deep River Navigation Company, and to consider the expediency of completing the works in a permanent manner.

Mr. Cherry was for laying the message on the table, till the committee provided for the other day Mr. Ashe was not aware of a committee having been appointed to do what was contemplated by the message. No committee had been appointed to inspect the works. Information was needed on this subject, and ought to be obtained. It was impossible to act till we had reliable information by members of our own body. The State was largely interested; and heavy executions were now hanging over the works, which would cause them to be sold in a few days, without something was done to avert it. These executions amounted to some $30,000 to

Mr. Cherry concurred entirely with Mr. Ashe. It was his original intention to have the works examined.

The Speaker explained that the House had concurred in the proposition moved by the Senator from Bertie (Mr. Cherry,) and had appointed its branch of the committee. But the House now proposed to raise a joint select committee to examine the works, &c., showing that that body did not consider it the duty of the committees proposed by the Senator to examine the works, but to report on the condition of the affairs of the Company. That was his, (the Speaker's,) understanding of the matter. Mr. Donnell doubted the utility of sending members of the Legislature to examine works that had puzzled professional engineers. Mr. McDonald said it was the desire of the company and the friends of the work that members uninterested and of practical common sense should examine the works and judge for themselves. Mr. Dobson did not mean, when he made the amendment on the appointment of the committee referred to, that that on the Yadkin River Navigation Company was to go and examine the river.— His object simply was to have the affairs of the company examined to see if they intended going on with the work, and if not, to return the money they had received from the State.

Mr. Steele so understood the object of the committee Mr. Donnell moved to lay the message on the table. Adopted. Mr. Edney moved that a message be sent to the House proposing to rescind the resolution providing railroad and navigation companies. Mr. Steele thought the Senator from Henderson. (Mr. Edney,) mistaken in his ideas of the duties of those committees. They were not to examine the works, but to enquire into the affairs of the compa-

Mr. Drake said in view of the difficulties and doubts which surrounded the question decided on yesterday, relative to the eligibility of the gentleman from Martin, to a seat on this floor, he offered the resolution just read. Since the decision of that question, he had examined more carefully than he had done heretofore, the constitution in regard to the eligibility of officers in this State, and of members of its Legislature. He found that none are required by its provisions to be of age except the governor, who must be 30 years of age. For himself he was unwilling that any man should hold office and discharge the functions thereof, unless he was, at least, of the age required of the electors of this State; none of the judges of the Superior or Supreme courts are required by the constitution to be of age; neither are the sheriff, coroner or constable; and should one of the latter be elected, being a minor at the time of his election and qualification, he in law is not responsible for his official acts. The securities might be held responsible, but he was not for leaving that in doubt. He trusted the resolution would be adopted by the House, and that the committee would report a bill to effect the object contemplated by the resolution. Mr. Caldwell, of Guilford, wished to be allowed to change his vote on Mr. Dancy's resolution. He was not in his place at the beginning of the debate and was influenced by Mr. Ransom's argument to vote in favor of admitting Mr. Moore to his seat. Subsequent reflection had made him doubt the propriety of that vote, and he hoped the House would permit him to do so.

The Speaker said it could not be done without the unanimous consent of the House. Mr. Ward objected, as did also Mr. Outlaw.

The Speaker said Mr. C's motion would be entered on the journals, which would effect the object aimed at by him. After some remarks from Mr. Dula in support o Mr. Drake's resolution, it was adopted. Mr. Morehead also wished to enter his protest against the principle involved in the decision on Mr. Moore's case. Mr. Fleming moved to refer the report upon the eligibility of Mr. Taylor back to the committee on privileges and elections.

Several engrossed bills from the Senate were read the first time. The bill to establish the new county of Alleghany being put on its third reading, Mr. T. R. Caldwell had never voted against new counties, but thought they were running it too far, to organize counties without the requisite population, which he thought it had not; if it had, he was willing to vote for the bill. Mr. Gentry said the object of the bill was to make an equal division of population and territory, and calculating as near as possible from the votes polled at last election for Senators and members, which was 1620; assuming 91 to each vote, which was the ratio of population in 1850, in that county, it gave 15,390 as the population of Ashe county at present. And arriving as nearly as poseible at a precise number, would give 750 votes in the new

Mr. Woodfin said the county would have the requisite population before 1872, and was the passage of the bill.

Mr. Ferebee was inclined to doubt the correctness of the statements, relative to the population of Ashe, made by Mr. G., who, while stating the increase in his county, did not allow for the general increase throughout the State, which would increase the amount of population required for a member at the next apportionment. He was opposed to framing new counties, without satisfactory evidence that they had the requisite amount of population.

Mr. Gentry desciplated his former statements, and had so the county having the number required. State there this entity was situated. The state of the st

Mr. Kerr had travelled the section, and was aware of the difficulties to be overcome in travelling to a distant Court House. From the personal experience of a friend of his, he was satisfied that this was the required amount of population, which would rapidly increase.

Mr. Outlaw opposed the bill. The convention of 1835 was called to correct the inequality of the rep- | were adopted, the finance committee would at once

Several of the western counties had not the requisite population to entitle them to a member, and though not influenced by sectional feeling, he thought the western counties have all ready a majority in the Legislature. He grounded his objections to the bill on the want of population in the new county.

Mr. Gentry having received permission to speak, said while willing to acquit the member from Bertie of sectional feeling, he must say that when stating there were several western counties not having the requisite population, that he had forgot to state there were 18 eastern counties also short of the number. It would bring no increase of taxation, as the taxes were as high as the charter would allow. He represented the wishes and interests of the citizens of Statesville in sup.

porting the bill. Mr. Gaither, of Iredell, said this extension had been discussed in the last campaign. The people were in favor of making a road to the depot, but wished no legislative excitement. They had no objection to any improvement, and were in favor of giving the commissioners power to do it.

After a few remarks from Mr. Fleming, the bill passed its second reading. The House then adjourned to Monday morning at

Resolved, That any system of revenue imposing upon any class of citizens or property more than their equitable share of the burdens of government, is inconsistent with that principle of democratic republican equality upon which the government was established, and without which it can not exist. Resolved, That the committee on finance are hereby instructed to report a revenue bill upon the principles set forth in the foregoing resolutions. Objection being made to the printing, Mr. Bledsoe said he would withdraw the motion to print. He then proceeded to explain that the object of the resolutions was to instruct the committee on finance to report a revenue bill based upon the ad valorem principle. He had introduced a bill to effect that end; but it seemed to be the opinion of at least a portion of the committee that they were not bound to notice the provisions of that bill in instructing them. The resolutions aimed to give that committee special instructions which they could not disregard. The present revenue bill was wrong in principle, unjust in its operation, and he (Mr. B.) now gave notice of his intention to attack it at every assailable point when presented to the Senate. Mr. Steele was quite aware of the object of the resolutions. The question on their adoption was very important—involving the question whether the Senate assented to the principle of taxation advocated by the Senator from Wake, (Mr. Bledsoe.) He would say for himself (Mr. S.) that he had no objection to the principle, and would like to see it carried out, if practicable. But the committee on finance, who might be supposed to have a full appreciation of their obligation to the Legislature and the State, had given the matter a full and fair consideration and had reported against the ad ralorem principle. If you now instruct them to introduce a bill, the principles of which their judgment had rejected, you would attempt the destruction of their functions as a committee-in fact you had better discharge them and appoint another committee favorable to the views of the Senator from Wake.

Mr. Bledsoe saw no propriety or necessity for the suggestion to discharge the present committee. There never had been a committee who had introduced a revenue bill, some of whose provisions had not been questioned and amended by the Legislature. That had never yet been construed into a reflection on these committees. He, (Mr. B.) was a member of the present finance committee; and it could hardly be supposed he would attempt to reflect upon it, for in doing so he must of necessity reflect upon himself. That no advantage might be taken on this subject, he had proposed to print the resolution. He desired a radical reform in the principle of taxation-to subject all species of property to the common burden, and to equalize those burdens in a fair and just proportion. The present revenue bill was the result of the arbitrary will of a majority of the committee of finance. All knew the deference paid to reports of committees-that injudicious legislation was the frequent result of too much confidence in their judgment. Mr. Worth thought that common courtesy to the Senator from Wake would lead the Senate to assent to the printing of the resolutions. Their adoption or rejection involved an important question, and they certainly were entitled to respectful consideration. He would renew the motion to print. Mr. Steele did not object to having this matter fully considered. In reply to the assertion of Mr. Bledsoe, that the present revenue bill was the result of the arbitrary will of a majority of the committee on finance, Mr. Steele stated that it would have been better for the State if the revenue laws had been at the absolute dictum of that committee. Confusion had grown out of inconsiderate amendments to the committees' bills. The printing of the resolutions would lead to a delay of perhaps ten days, and thus the committee on finance would be left idle, and the introduction of the revenue bill would be delayed till a late period of the session. He would rather see the matter settled at once, and the finance committee would then know upon what principle to frame their bill. Mr. Bledsoe said that conflicting clauses in former revenue bills had grown out of the details, not out of the principle of the bills. The truth was those bills had never been founded on any regular principle. He (Mr. B.) was a member of the finance committee two years ago, and the principle they acted upon then was to take the old revenue bill and add 25 per cent. to it just as it stood, without regard to principle. The ad valorem principle was a definite one, and would reduce and simplify the labors of the committee.

Mr. Cherry thought the Senate should indicate by a direct vote whether they were in favor of instructing, by the resolutions, the committee on finance. If the Senator's (Mr. Bledsoe's) resolutions
